Four receive Athlone prize for engineers

Albert W. Bridgewater, Matthew L. Hess, Henry W. Hinds, and Richard J. Kind will leave in September for England, under the Athlone Fellowship scheme.

The plan provides for two years of advanced training for graduate engineers in universities and engineering firms, sponsored by the British Government.

The four students are among forty-two Canadian engineers who were awarded the fellowships this year. They may work towards their Master's Degree during their two years, and often stay on for a further year at their own expense.

Selection Board

The Fellows were chosen by a selection board which included two British representatives. Local faculty members of the various colleges joined the board in an advisory capacity, but had no voice in the actual selections.

Applicants were screened by the board for academic excellence and all-round ability. They were then interviewed and questioned as to their reasons for applying and their future plans. Questions ranged from the reasons for their choices of courses to their opinions on current international affairs.

"I have always wanted to travel", explained Bridgewater. "This trip will enable me to gain much valuable experience, as well as helping me to gain a better job on my return".

Not just prestige

The Fellowship is not merely a prestige item, said Hess. "Nor is it only a carefree vacation in Europe. It involves a great deal of study and hard work".

Kind plans to teach, and the trip will provide him with a chance to investigate the British educational system, especially in the field of post-graduate studies.

To widen outlook

Hinds explained that the Fellowship will help him to study the different culture of England, and to widen his outlook on life.

The four students are all in group "A", which means that they all hope to graduate this year. Another McGill student, William N. Caldwell, will be among the eight group "B" Fellows, who have all had some post-graduate experience in the past.

Change of course

Change of course forms for Arts and Science students will be available from the Associate Dean's office in A-140 from January 13-17.

The forms are for students who wish to apply for second term half courses other than those for which they are presently registered.

Hardfought Contest

Redmen tie Marlins 1-1

by DAVE McFARLANE

The Redmen combined tenacious checking with tremendous goaltending Friday night to gain a 1-1 draw with the visiting McMaster Marlins before 800 enthusiastic spectators. The Marlins, leading the OQAA and defending Canadian Intercollegiate Champions, were fortunate to escape with one point as the Redmen skated them into the ice during the latter half of the game.

In other action Friday evening, the second place Toronto Varsity Blues defeated winless Queen's 5-2 while Laval was trouncing the hapless Waterloo Warriors 9-3 in Quebec.

On Saturday afternoon in Kingston, McMaster got back on the winning trail by downing Queen's 6-4. At the Paul Sauvé Arena Saturday night, the surprising University of Montreal team downed Waterloo 8-5.

Defenceman Bernie Roy, who has finally rounded into fine shape, tied the score for the Redmen midway through the middle period after Pete Randle had given the visitors a 1-0 lead in the opening frame. The tie gave the Redmen two points of a possible six in the OQAA standings but still left them mired near the bottom of the league.

No breaks

Coach Burnett said in the noisy Redmen dressing room after the game that he felt his boys played very well. He added, "If we had had any breaks around the net we would have won by two goals." The McMaster dressing room by contrast, was quiet. Marlins' coach Les Prince's only comment was "It was a good game."

Both goaltenders, Marlins John Cannon and Ken Walters had busy evenings turning aside 44 and 43 shots respectively. Walters was especially brilliant in the first period when he stopped twenty shots and prevented the Marlins from building up a large lead. His performance seemed to lift the Redmen who came on to tie the score and almost win.

Burnett and the Redmen were happy with the support the team got for the important game. He said, "That crowd helped. A little noise always helps."

The Redmen powerplay had four opportunities in the game but failed to capitalize on any. Late in the third period, they held a two-man advantage for one minute and fifteen seconds and did everything but put the puck into the net.

Goalpost problems

In the first period the Redmen showed a liking for the goalpost, as they did throughout the game by hitting it three times. Marlins had the best scoring chances however. In this period, Walters had to be brilliant to stop Randle and then the rebound from Bain from ten feet out.

Then McMaster captain Jim McLellan snared a pass in the McGill end but rang it off the post. Pete Randle, the Marlins' biggest threat all night made no mistake however, at 12:10 when he backhanded his own rebound past Walters after Dinning had

Dr. Robertson to open Campus Chest campaign

McGill Campus Chest, the new and improved version of the former combined charity campaign, will be officially inaugurated today at 1 pm in the Walter M. Stewart Room by Dr. H. Locke Robertson, Principal and Vice-Chancellor.

With its objective of $8,000, Campus Chest is much like the former organization but with many major changes. Basically, it is a McGill charity fund out of which distribution is made to needy community and student charities. It does not, however, try to cover all religious and social organizations, nor be limited in scope to a fund-raising campaign.

Bruce Cleven, this year's chairman of Campus Chest, announced the symbol of the campaign will be "a chest which I hope will be filled by the generous students of McGill during this up and coming week."

Two student organizations and five under-publicized Montreal charities will be the beneficiaries of this campaign. The latter organizations are those which are concerned chiefly with children and young adults. The time and money which they spend deals with a group very much in need of aid.

The McGill organizations receive 40% of the collection. Ten percent goes to Canadian University Service Overseas, with the remaining 30% going to S. H. A. R. E. (The International Program of the World University Service).

The remaining funds will be divided equally among five Montreal groups, with 12% going to each. The organizations are as follows: The Montreal Dystrophy Association of Canada, The Montreal Association for Multiple Sclerosis, the Province of Quebec Society for Crippled Children, the Montreal Association for the Blind, and the Montreal Association for Retarded Children.

Benefit concert

On Saturday, at 8:30 pm in Redpath Hall, the McGill Faculty of Music is presenting a concert, of which the proceeds are to go to the Chest. Professor Alexander Brott will conduct the all Mozart concert.

As a special feature, the McGill Opera Workshop will present "The Marriage of Figaro". This will be the second part of the programme, and will be directed by Edith and Luciano Partola.

Tickets, on sale at the International Music Store and the Union Box Office, are $3.00 for the public and $1.50 for McGill students.

FILM SOCIETY SPONSORS 'BITTER ASH' SHOWING

"Bitter Ash," a highly-controversial film written, directed and produced by University of British Columbia student Larry Kent, will be shown here this Friday evening.

The 87-minute movie is the result of $5,000 and three months effort on the part of the student cast. Throughout the production stage, all this work was jeopardized by the realism in several of Kent's scenes.

One of the scenes shows the sex act from beginning to end.

The film is being brought to McGill through the Film Society. It is open to all McGill students, and will be shown in the P.S.C.A. at 4:30 pm, 6:30 pm, and 9 pm. Tickets, at 50 cents, will be sold at the door. Student passes must be shown.

At first, the printers refused to develop the film. However, Kent finally found a willing printer two days before it was due to be premiered.

Then, a 19 year-old student-actress refused to allow the show to be screened.

However Kent's troubles were just beginning, as the office of the Provincial Censor was flooded with calls from the general public protesting the film. One parent said she was taking her son out of the university because of the film's showing.

In response to the widespread criticism, Kent reminded the public that "the point we make is that promiscuity is an impossible means of escape. The scenes, which some may think obscene, are vitally necessary to the whole film".

Several days later, however, Kent said he would be willing to chop and change the film because he wanted to show it in a downtown theatre. Later these plans fell through as no theatre offered to screen it.

To fill the Campus Chest

With a new name "Campus Chest" and a revised distribution schedule for the money it will raise, McGill's annual charity drive begins today. Its organizers have set a goal of $8,000, not high by any standards, and they hope to complete the campaign in one week. The success or failure of their efforts to date remain to be seen. One thing is certain. If the campus chest is to be filled, two important ingredients are necessary.

Previous drives at McGill have fallen short of their objectives largely because those in charge did not put enough energy into their work. Every canvasser will encounter some refusals, polite or otherwise. These are as inevitable as they are unfortunate. Nevertheless, a canvasser who makes an appointment and does not keep it, or one who writes "will not donate" on an envelope when he or she has made no effort to contact the person named, is prejudicing this and future campaigns. The committee has done an excellent job of publicizing the drive. Now they must carry through with redoubled enthusiasm.

Once the committee has put forth its greatest efforts, the onus falls upon the students to respond. This is the one authorized campaign of the year on our campus. Realizing that the average student is hard pressed to support himself, the multiple appeals of the past have been effectively banned and all our efforts are channelled into one major campaign. Targets are set at levels well within our reach and our sense of responsibility to the community is relied upon to ensure that these targets are reached. The list of organizations which will benefit from this first "Campus Chest" is impressive. Their need cannot be questioned.

A new feature of the charity drive is the benefit concert to be presented January 18th by the Faculty of Music. It is hoped that almost $1900 will be raised by this concert itself, in addition to providing a wonderful evening of music for those who will attend.

No amount of exhortation will avail if the students of McGill do not want to support this or any other campaign. The Campus Chest, like the Blood Drive, simply offers each of us an opportunity to do something for those who are in need. We hope that the efforts of the committee will be well rewarded. The Campus Chest should easily be filled to overflowing.

The importance of chests

The McGill Campus Chest resembles in many ways the old Combined Charities campaign which for many years has been the name for McGill's annual charity campaign. The SEC authorized the change in name so that the committee might better express the idea of the campaign as a fund-raising drive to help selected organizations, and not an attempt to cover all Montreal charities as has been tried in the past. The symbol of this year's campaign will be a chest with the slogan "Please fill the Chest."

A new innovation in this year's campaign is a Mozart concert given by the McGill Faculty of Music which has donated all proceeds to the Campus Chest. The first half of the program will feature the McGill School of Music Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Professor Alexander Brott. The second half will feature the McGill Opera Workshop which will present "The Marriage of Figaro". The concert will take place on Saturday January 18th at 8:30 pm in Redpath Hall. Tickets are priced at $1.50 and may be obtained at the McGill Union Box Office.

This year's objective has been set at $8,000 just a little over $2,000 more than was collected last year. The funds will be distributed in the ratio of 40% to student charities and 60% to the lesser known and less publicized Montreal Charity organizations.

At the end of last term a survey was run in three faculties to determine the distribution of funds from the proceeds of the Campus Chest campaign. This along with the decision of the S.E.C. has determined how the funds will be allocated.

Student Organizations:

S.H.A.R.E.:

(The International Program of Action of World University Service) 30% of the proceeds will go to SHARE to help W.U.S. to carry on its program in underdeveloped countries. W.U.S. is an international university organization which is active in more than 50 countries throughout the world. It provides material aid and scholarships to refugee students and professors, and aids them in securing text books, laboratory equipment, and teaching equipment. Another of its more important aspects is in the work it does in the improvement of health and living conditions of students in underdeveloped countries.

C.U.S.O.:

10% of this year's proceeds will be directed to the Canadian University Service Overseas (C.U.S.O.) which has sometimes been described as "Canada's Peace Corps." C.U.S.O. is an organization which was established in 1961 as a national agency to develop schemes to send Canadian graduate students to serve overseas in developing countries. Volunteers are only sent abroad in response to specific requests for their services by governments and other appropriate agencies. The success of C.U.S.O. depends largely upon the response of the local committees, such as McGill, which provide volunteers and financial support. Living expenses must be covered, and most important travelling expenses to and from the host countries must be paid for.

City Charities

The five city charities chosen are ones that are less well known and not as well off financially as many others. Each one spends most of its efforts on children and young adults. Each of the city charities will receive 12% of the funds collected.

Muscular Dystrophy

Muscular Dystrophy is a chronic disease that gradually wastes the voluntary muscles of the body until the body is useless.

The cause of this disease which strikes about 20,000 Canadians each year is not known. Two thirds are children between the ages of 3 and 13. Of these few will reach adolescence and almost all will die before reaching maturity.

The Muscular Dystrophy Association of Canada is raising money to sponsor research here and abroad, to finance science fellowships and to provide numerous services to ease the lot of M-D victims in Canada.

At McGill projects are carried on by the departments of Physiology, Biochemistry, Anatomy and at the Montreal Neurological Institute.

Multiple Sclerosis

Multiple Sclerosis is another disease of which no one knows the cause or cure. It is a patchy destruction of the central nervous system which can affect any part of the body, — eyes, legs, and any of the organs. The disease attacks young adults between the ages of 20 and 40, but is not fatal.

The Montreal Association for Multiple Sclerosis provides funds to support research in the disease at McGill and L'Université de Montréal, gives annual grants to the Occupational Therapy and Rehabilitation Centre, and provides treatment for as many people as possible who are afflicted by the disease.

Crippled Children

Money which is donated to the Quebec Society for Crippled Children is used mainly for training of children who are afflicted by such diseases as Polio, Multiple Sclerosis, Cerebral Palsy, Muscular Dystrophy and Drop Foot. Children in Montreal are treated at the Montreal Children's and Ste. Justine Hospitals and in the summer they are given the opportunity to attend a camp at Joliette, Quebec.

This camp with an annual budget of over $350,000 is the association's biggest expense. This covers the costs of doctors, trained specialists and of over 550 children who attend the camp each year.

The Blind

The Montreal Association for the Blind is the best known of our five city charities. Its main job is to give the blind a chance to live as normal a life as possible. It runs the only English language school for the blind children in Quebec and prepares children for further education in high schools and University.

It also runs a "sheltered shop" for the blind where they are able to make such items as brooms and chairs. Both the school and shop are paid for by outside donations, as the school receives no financial assistance from the government and the shop is unable to pay its way.

The association also provides for recreation for the blind in such sports as bowling and golf.

Retarded Children

The Montreal Association for Retarded Children works with children and young adults with I.Q.s of between 0 and 60. Mental retardation is not a disease, but a condition of impaired or incomplete medical development which leads to great emotional problems. The parents and family of the child must understand the problem and learn to live with it.

The Montreal School for Retarded Children looks after close to 400 children and young adults of all religions and languages training them to lead as normal a life as possible.

The association also runs a day camp in Montreal during the summer and also one at St. Lazare.

Travel Week concludes with Italian film, slides

by JANE WILLIAMS

"Travel Week this year was an experiment in finding a way to answer students' questions about travel and study in Europe."

Chuck Dalfen, Chairman of Travel Week, stated this as the purpose of Travel Week in an address to participants in an Italian program last Friday.

An Italian film, shown by Director Lionello Gavio of the Italian State Tourist Office, and a series of slides shown by Nicki Newby and Dave Fieldhouse brought an end to Travel Week.

The film consisted entirely of scenes from Tuscany, for of all the immense variety of landscapes that Italy has to offer, her visitors, "the most Italian is certainly that of Tuscany."

The tourist attractions of Florence and Pisa were shown together with views of the countryside and the smaller villages.

Nicki Newby and Dave Fieldhouse both had slides of recent trips to Italy. Miss Newby gave a quite refreshingly different picture of Rome — she had concentrated on the modern area of the city, large homes, gardens and parks as well as the new business districts.

Banners in Rome

Fieldhouse, who visited the city at the time of the spring elections, presented some interesting Communist campaign banners. "Banners in Rome," he said, "do the job radio and television do here."

Dalfen informed the audience that Italy is one of the easiest countries for students to travel in. No matter where you go there are tourist attractions near you, and while there are apparently few free camping sites in Italy, there are quite a number of hostels which provide cheap accommodation.

Any student with questions about travel in Europe or the McGill charter flights may leave them at the SEC office or contact the travel bureaus.

Redmen . . .

The Marlin's came out strongly in the second frame and proceeded to quickly hit the crossbar and the post on two successive shots. But from this point on, the Redmen took over. Dave Kerr missed an easy goal before Roy finally found the range by back-handing his own rebound into the upper right-hand corner.

The Redmen hemmed the Marlin's in their own end for much of the remainder of the game after Roy's goal but only met frustration on every turn. The Readings for Jean Genet's play, "The Balcony" will be held tonight and tomorrow at 7:15 pm in the Union Clubroom.

"The Balcony" is to be the Players' Club Experimental production this year. Set almost entirely in a brothel, this work is considered Genet's definitive statement on the inter-relationships between illusion and reality, as modulated by sex.

The production is to be directed by Michael Kullman, of the Department of Philosophy and has a cast of eight men and six women.

Redshirts were still buzzing dangerously around the Marlin's net as the final siren sounded.

RINK NOTES: The line of Bell-Kerr-Abbott failed to score after coming up with five goals during the Christmas holidays. To add insult to injury, they were on the ice when McMaster scored . . . The combination of Taylor-Gordon-Halliwell was the pick of the Redmen forward crews . . . Pete Randle and Jim McLellan looked good for the visitors . . . Basketballers have losing weekend

The basketball Redmen, crippled by a sudden lack of depth, returned from a losing two-day excursion into Ontario this weekend. On Friday night they dropped a 72-39 decision to Western, and on Saturday they were overwhelmed 99-39 by the University of Waterloo.

Several very big problems are facing this team at the moment. Over the weekend they had only 8 players who could make the trip, as medical exams kept Steve Chandler and Ben Shore at home, and Sy Luterman and Jack Walker have decided to withdraw permanently due to pressure of studies.

To meet this situation, Coach Ron Sharpe decided to try a ball control game against Western. This worked well during the first half and the score was very low, only 19-12 with 3 minutes to go, and 30-19 at the half. However, in the second half, Western switched to a zone defence which requires good shooting to break. The Redmen could not supply it, and Western had little trouble from then on. Leading scorers for McGill were Bruce Randall and Dave Gillman with 9 and Randy Clarke with 4.

Waterloo

Against Waterloo, nowhere near as good a team as Western, the problems were even more clearly shown up. The players could hit for only 21% of their shots and were behind 20-0 before they could score a point. The half-time score was 50-24 and Waterloo just failed to reach three figures before the end of the game.

While no one can complain about his necessity to study, Walker's absence has definitely left a big hole in the team. Coach Sharpe has three big men who can control the centre of the court and rebound well. Dave Gillman, George Langvari, and Bob Mingie, are all capable of carrying out this job. In two other vital categories however, talent is sadly lacking. Both in bringing the ball up the court and in outside shooting the Redmen have been unable to show very much. These were areas in which Walker has starred over the past several seasons, and he was badly missed this weekend.

Instead the Redmen were forced into attempting a defensive style game in order to cover up these weaknesses, and when West-help the Redmen in either of these categories is definitely invited to try out for the team this week. Practices are on Tuesday and Thursday at 6 o'clock at the Sir Arthur Currie Gym.

Dick Feidler, the giant tackle from Syracuse, who has anchored the football Redmen's line for the past several seasons, will be invited to join the team. Dick has a fine outside shot and is a competent ball-handler. On top of this, his 230 pounds will of course add to McGill's strength under the boards.

Return matches

Next weekend sees both Waterloo and Western returning here,

Waterloo on Friday and Western on Saturday at 8 pm in the Gym. Western is one of the leaders in the O.Q.A.A. and probably will be fighting it out for the title with Assumption. The Redmen have not had much fan support this season, and a good crowd would raise hopes for an upset.

Gilfillan gets three as Indians lose

by VICTOR STEINBERG

Before a record crowd of 23 fans, Sir George Williams managed to squeak by the Hockey Indians, 7-6.

Dave Dies of Sir George scored four goals and set up two others for a six point splurge. Bill Ardell registered two goals and Trevor Kerr fired one for the visitors.

Al Gilfillan led the Indians' attack with a hat trick and one assist. Jean-Guy Labrie, Fred McRobie, and Dick Ripstein fired one goal apiece. Rick Moore, although he didn't put the puck in the net, assisted on three.

Positional hockey

After coming up with their worst hockey of the season in the first period, the Indians settled down and concentrated on playing positional hockey. This resulted in their better play of the second and third frames.

Sir George outshot McGill 38-34. This is no indication of the play, however. Most of Sir George's shots were of the dangerous calibre whereas the Indians' were taken from wide angles.

Paul Kingwell, Indians' goalie, was responsible for keeping his team in the contest. He made several fine stops on breakaways and managed to get in the way of several shots. As usual, he had luck working with him. In the last period, Sir George rapped three shots off the goalposts.

Scoring

Sir George wasted no time in opening up the scoring, as Ardell put the puck in the net at the twelve second mark of the first frame. Kerr passed the puck to Dies beside the net. In turn, Dies placed the rubber on Ardell's stick in front of the net. Ardell blasted it into the mesh from about five feet out.

Dies countered his first goal at 9:54 of the period as he broke in alone on Kingwell. The period ended 2-0.

McGill opened the second period with a bang. At 12 seconds, Gilfillan scored on a pass from Larry McCarthy.

With McGill shorthanded two men, Ardell scored his second of the night at 2:13. Kingwell made the initial save but could not trap the rebound.

McGill closed the margin to 3-2, one minute and forty seconds later. Labrie passed the puck to Moore in the corner. His pass across the goalmouth was slapped in by Gilfillan.

3 goals

Sir George then scored three goals in a space of one minute and 21 seconds. Two of these goals were scored while Sir George was playing five men against the Indians' six. Kerr scored from Dies at 10:59 and Dies put in his second of the night at 11:38. McGill was assessed a penalty and the teams were playing five aside when Kerr again scored at 12:20.

McGill bounced back for two fast goals. Gilfillan completed his hat trick at 14:15 on a pass from Moore and Labrie scored 45 seconds later from Gilfillan and Moore.

Dies scored his fourth of the night from McLaren at 2:18 of the third frame. The Indians countered quickly when McRobie scored from Ripstein and Howie Phillips at 3:12. McRobie skated around the Sir George net and tucked the puck just inside the goalpost.

Ripstein closed out the scoring at 19:24 as he scored unassisted. He stole the puck from the Sir George defence, fired, and put in the rebound.
